An Institute of Digital Art & Technology Project

Port-Pods was an audio distribution project for the Port Eliot Literature Festival, in July 2005. On the day of the festival a team of people with Port-Pod T-shirts were offering free MP3 audio tracks for the public to copy on to their iPods and MP3 players. The free tracks were be copied on to peoples iPods from the Port-Pod team. Alternatively the public had the opportunity to leave a credit card with a team member and borrow an MP3 player in order take part in the Port-Pod Experience.
